ENGLISH LITERATURE Students will succeed if they can…
Explain why each author was writing. Understanding biographical details and explaining how these shapes the texts is a feature of the top grades. The more specific these details are the better.	Annotate an unseen extract thoroughly for meaning. Students should be able to completely dissect an extract as they read, exploring the writer's choice of language as they go.	Plan their essays before they begin. All students have banks of plans for questions that are likely to come up. A clear plan, with quotations, and contextual ideas, means their essay will have a clear structure .
Speak about characters as 'constructs'. What we mean by this is what do they symbolise? How does the writer use them as a way of communicating their message to the reader/audience?	Recall clear quotations from across each of the texts. The highest grades are awarded to those who can support observations about every part of the text with a specific quotation.	Use their introduction to impress the examiner. It is a great opportunity to demonstrate an understanding of when the text was written, and what was going on in the world at that time.
